Colombian singer Shakira is famous for her beauty, hip shaking and her voice, but she also works tirelessly for good causes. When she was just eighteen and starting to make money as a singer, she decided to use that money to create the Barefoot Foundation, named after the children who lived on the streets in her local community. The organisation aims to provide an education for poor and disadvantaged children, with the hope of lifting them out of poverty.

She knows what it is like to have no money as, when she was seven, her father's jewellery business went bankrupt. Her family had to sell a lot of their belongings, including the air conditioner and their television. When she complained to her father about the heat with no air conditioner, her father took her to see the 'barefoot' children, who lived in the dirt, with tattered clothes and bare feet, and she realised that many families had less than they did. This made a lasting impression on her. In April 2004, she was appointed the youngest ever UNICEF Goodwill Ambassador.

David Beckham, an English footballing hero, has played for Manchester United, England, Real Madrid and LA Galaxy, and is one of England's wealthiest sportsmen. He came into the news in 2013, however, for a different reason. On signing for Paris St-Germain, a French team, he promised to donate his £150,000 weekly salary to a French Children's charity.

He has always worked tirelessly for good causes and is passionate about helping children. In January 2005, he became a UNICEF Goodwill Ambassador. Since then, he has played a very important role in UNICEF's work. In 2012 he took part in a Save the Children campaign to persuade the UK Prime Minister David Cameron to take action to help children affected by malnutrition around the world. In 2015 he launched his own David Beckham UNICEF fund to help protect children in danger.

Documenting the issues of our time

The Sundance Institute is a non-profit organisation founded by the actor Robert Redford in 1981. Its documentary film programme helps new documentary makers, by running workshops on editing and story-telling, and also giving funds to films about human rights, freedom of expression, social justice, civil liberties and other important issues of our time. They have given almost $5.2 million to over 175 projects in 52 different countries. Their aims are to discover, support and inspire independent filmmakers around the world and introduce audiences to their new work. By supporting films like these, they are also helping to raise public awareness of important issues. One of the projects the programme has helped is a film called How to Change the World by the director Jerry Rothwell, which is about the founders of Greenpeace. Through Sundance and its members, the director managed to raise more than £25,000 to help distribute it and give it a bigger audience. The Sundance Institute also holds an annual film festival in Utah, where around sixteen documentary makers get the opportunity to show their films.
